KERENS DODGES POLITICAL QUESTIONS.

Republican National Committeeman Says He Is Too Busy With Private Enterprises.

TALKS OF OIL IN THE WEST.

Evades Inquiries About the Presidential Possibilities and the Situation in Ohio-Seems Nettled at Webster Davis.

R. C. Kerens, Republican National Committeeman from Missouri, has just returned from a six weeks' trip to Utah, Nevada and the Pacific Coast. To a reporter for The Republic he said he knew nothing new in

"But," he said, "I do know a great deal about the country west of the Rockies. 1 had a most pleasant trip. The country is in a prosperous condition, The mining interest is flourishing. The rainfall has been plentiful throughout California and the entire Pacific slope. The crops generally are good. Of course, total fallure is impossible because of irrigation."

Mr. Kerens is very much interested in the oil industry of the West. About it he said: "The oil industry is becoming an important factor in the way of fuel. A plentiful supply of fuel oil has been discovered in Southern California. All locomotives on the Southern Pacific and Atchison systems are being rapidly converted from coal burners to oil burners. This is a great benefit to the railroads, as fuel is the greatest item in railroads, as their is the graces of coal on the Pacific Coast has varied from $12 to $15 a ton. Experts estimate that there is enough oil already produced to last fifty years.
"I was informed by the management of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe system in California," said Mr. Kerens, "that sleep the production of the form years. that system began using oil fuel four years ago, the company's saving, as compared with the use of coal as fuel, has been as-600,000. The Southern Pacific was not so quick to take to off fuel, but that road has decided to follow the Atchison in thus re-

The coastwise steamship lines on the Pacific are beginning to use oil fuel. Its use will become general in the near future-Later its use will extend east of the Rock-les, and, in my judgment, ocean-going steamers on the Atlantic will take to its ise. The San Pedro, Los Angeles and Salt Lake Railroad, better known as Senator Clark's road, uses oil for fuel exclusive.y." The interview drifted around to politica again. Mr. Kerens was just back from the West, and said he didn't know a thing. He had been too busy looking after business to talk politics. Asked if he had anything to say at all on that subject, Mr. Kerens dictard the statement.

tated this statement: "I have nothing to say on politics or the political situation. There's no campaign on this year, and there's no election pending." "In Ohio," was suggested, but Mr. Kerens was not interested-Ohio trn't Missouri.

Continuing, he said: "And I have forgotten politics altogether My business affairs keep me constantly em-ployed, and I am ininding my own business as best I can." At the mention of any phase of Missouri

At the mention of any phase of assortion and politics. Mr. Kerens was oppressively sflent. He thinks it is too early to discuss presidential aspirants.

He would not discuss anybody's candidacy nor friends nor foes. He was very much interested to hear that a book on the Boer-British War by Webster Davis is about to be issued, and remarked that ingot the young crator his position in the got the young orator his position in the Cabinet. He also seemed nettled that Davis had become a Democrat.

"Web promised me he wouldn't flop," he Told that Mr. Davis received $180,000 for his book he suddenly decided that he would not further discuss politics, after saying: "I'm too busy to be envious of anybody." And then he added promises, young man."

BURNED ITSELF OUT.

Started by Lightning, but Was Unable to Break Through Walls or Windows.

White Plains, N. Y., Aug. 4.-Pire, believed to have been started by lightning when the last electrical storm passed over this place, ruined the Sunday-school room of the Baptist Church, but the fact was not discovered for four days. How long the fire burned is not known, and never will be. It probably smoldered for a day or be. It probably smoldered for a day or so and after exhausting the little air which could reach it, died out.

The church was used last Sunday, and after the evening service Sexton George Lent locked up the building, closing every door and window, and did not visit it again for several days.

The church is a solid stone structure.

Under its roof there are two main rooms, the larger being the church auditorium proper, and the smaller the Sunday-school room, which is fifty by thirty feet. Its large window openings are filled with stained glass of heavy quality, and this stained glass of heavy quality, and this was doubtless a contributing cause to the peculiar action of the fire, as ordinary gluss peculiar action of the fire, as ordinary glass would have broken under the heat and admitted the air which the fire needed for its continuance. Between the main auditorium and the Sunday-school room there is a solid wall, except for one large, thick oaken door. The ceiling of the Sunday-school room and the walls are of plaster.

The bolt of lightning tore a small hole in the seel near the caves and descended some and the walls are of plaster.

The bolt of lightning tore a small hole in the roof near the caves and descended some distance through the side wall plaster before it emerged. From the point of the bolt's leaving the wall to the floor the plaster and lath are ripped out, showing the back of the stone facing. In its course the lightning hit the gas pipe running up through the wall and broke off the fixture. The gas released by the breaking of the fixture took fire either from the bolt itself or the fire which followed, and it was still emitting a fiame three feet long when Sexton Lent entered.

From the wall close to the floor it is supposed the bolt leaped to the large reed organ which stood on the floor not far from where the bolt emerged. There is burned in the floor at that point a hole or irregular shape, but about twelve by fourteen feet. The four-by-six beams which supported the floor are burned to a depth of three inches and charred for another inch. Of the woodwork and other combustible parts of the organ nothing remains but fine ashes. The chairs near by, the books, and the organ seat were destroyed. For several feet away from the edges of the hole burned in the floor he chairs are charred and blistered still further back.

The door leading from the Sunday-school room into the ma'n auditorium, although some distance from the hole in the floor, has the varnish melted off and the woodwork blackened by the smoke and heat. The loss will be considerable, but just what the officials of the church have not had an opportunity to figure out.

COUNTY PARAGRAPHS.
